RENZ collection box – contactless handover of goods

The RENZ collection box allows every company to easily arrange a contactless collection of goods for themselves. Each compartment has a battery-operated code lock so the RENZ collection box is independent of any unit and does not require power or an Internet connection. Easy self-assembly is possible but we will also gladly take care of this for you.

Easy handover of goods

1. The customer orders the goods that they want to collect.
2. The operator places the goods in a compartment and assigns a freely definable code, which they give their customer together with the compartment number.
3. The customer can remove their goods with the code 24 hours a day without any contact.

Module L

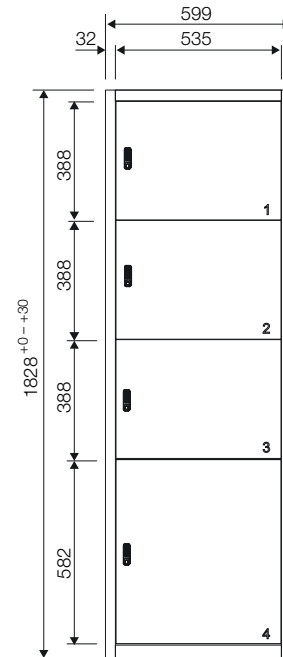

Extended

Thanks to the modular design, the unit can be assembled to suit the customer's requirements, for indoor or outdoor use. A subsequent extension of the unit is also possible.

Example of the module L with indoor panelling

Unit depth:
408 mm with indoor panelling
565 mm with outdoor panelling

RENZ collection box – modular design

Combine the unit that you require as you wish from the various modules available – this can also be done retrospectively. You can choose a suitable colour for you from over 200 RAL colours. The units can also be individually designed with foil so that they fit perfectly with your company's corporate image.
